FREE ACCA BOOKS BACKER STUDY BOOKS 2021-2022 Car insurance is one of the most FREE ACCA BOOKS BACKER STUDY BOOKS 2021-2022 - FREE ACCA BOOKS DOWNLOAD expensive costs involved in driving a car, and it's not something you can avoid - a minimum level of insurance is required by law. That doesn't mean you have to blindly pay whatever your insurer quotes though, as there are several simple things you can do to reduce the cost of your premiums. 1) Shop around and buy online: Figures show that many people simply renew their current policies without shopping around. The internet makes it easy to compare prices from different insurers, so why not take advantage of this? Plus, you'll usually get a discount of 10% or more just for buying your policy online. 2) Policy type: do you really need a comprehensive policy with all the extras? Going for a third party fire & theft policy can reduce your premiums hugely, and is definitely worth considering if your car isn't an expensive model. 3) No claims discounts: Nearly all policies FREE ACCA BOOKS BACKER STUDY BOOKS 2021-2022 - FREE ACCA BOOKS DOWNLOAD feature a discount that increases for every year you don't make a claim. The higher the discount available, the more you could save. Also look at insurers offering a 'no claims bonus for life' feature, where your current discount level can be fixed forever, even if you have to make a claim somewhere down the line. 4) Excess: The excess on a policy is the amount of a claim you have to pay before the insurer pays the rest. Choosing to have a higher than standard excess level will usually mean lower premiums. 5) Security: Fitting your vehicle with an alarm, immobiliser, or other security devices can lead to premium reductions. Parking your car off-road, for example on a driveway or in a garage, will also mean a cheaper policy. 6) Pay annually: Many insurers charge you interest for the privilege of paying in monthly installments. Pay annually if you can afford it to avoid this, or look for one of the companies that don't charge extra for monthly payment. 7) Mileage: The more mileage you run up every year, the more your insurance will cost. Even if you can't reduce your mileage, make sure you're not overestimating how much you actually do drive, and give your insurer an accurate figure. 8) Drivers: The more drivers you have on your FREE ACCA BOOKS BACKER STUDY BOOKS 2021-2022 - FREE ACCA BOOKS DOWNLOAD policy, the more it will cost. Reduce the number of people insured to drive your car to the minimum possible, and try to get the policy in the name of a driver with the lowest risk profile. For example, if a car is driven by both a man and a woman, insuring it in the woman's name will often result in a cheaper quote. Test again. And then test some more. If ad "A" receives a two percent response rate, and ad "B" receives three percent, then we can deduce that ad "B" will Study & practice with our set of ACCA BOOKS materials 2021-2022 continue to outperform ad "A" on a larger scale. Testing takes time, however, and can be expensive if not kept in check. Therefore, it's ideal to start with some proven tested known ideas and work from there. For example, if testing has shown for decades or more that targeted advertising significantly outperforms untargeted advertising (and it does), then we can start with that assumption and go from there. If we know based on test results that Study & practice with our set of ACCA BOOKS materials 2021-2022 crafting an ad that speaks directly to an individual performs better than addressing the masses (again, it does), then it makes little sense to start testing with the assumption that it does not. This is common sense. So it stands to reason that knowing some basic rules or techniques about writing effective copy is in order. Test results will always trump everything, but it's better to have a starting point before you test. Sometimes a little tweak here or there is all that is needed to increase response rates dramatically.When a prospect reads your ad, letter, brochure, etc., the one thing he will be wondering from the start is: "what's in it for me?" And if your copy doesn't tell him, it'll land in the trash faster than he can read the headline or lead. A lot of advertisers make this mistake. They focus on them as a company. How long they've been in business, who their biggest customers are, how they've spent ten years of research and millions of dollars on developing this product, blah, blah. Actually, those points are important. But they should be expressed in a way that matters to your potential customer. Remember, once he's thrown it in the garbage, the sale is lost!
